

Oregon Human Powered Vehicles
Proudly Announces
Human Power Challenge 2008

Portland International Raceway

Memorial Day Weekend May 24 – 26

Oregon Human Powered Vehicle (OHPV), a consortium of designers, builders and riders of these incredible manifestations of ergonomic efficiency brings you the "Human Power Challenge," in conjunction with Electrathon America, invite you to watch, race, and marvel at this forefront technology. This venue will offer competitive racing as well as a vendor display area for manufacturers and supporters of this industry to show their product and help inform the public about these transportation viability's. These machines commonly referred to as recumbents, will face challenges along with their riders by participating in one or more of several race venues. The race formats will include road racing, time trials, drag racing, 200 meter flying speed trials and autocross. Admission is free for spectators, so come cheer your favorite racers to victory. Volunteers are always welcome and needed.
